KEEPING THE PROMISE

In this 50th anniversary year for our Hospital, our nurses have kept the promise that was made by those who came before them some five decades ago and over the years that have followed.

One that conveys that nursing is a profession of selflessness. One that reflects that nursing is not for the faint of heart nor the empty of heart. A promise that proclaims that the character of a nurse is as important as the knowledge she or he possesses.

To the nurses of Boca Raton Regional Hospital — during Nurses Week, May 6 through 12 — thank you for keeping the promise.

Nadine Clarke-Francis, RN, BSN
Oncology